Business Owners – Techniques to Boost Your Credit Score

Many business owners think a compelling business plan, excellent management skills and solid goals for the future are all that's required to get a business loan. Well, it's not! Before applying for any type of financing it's essential for them to do an analysis of the relationship they have had with their credit & debt over the past years. There is a direct correlation between managing personal finances well and ability to successfully meet the capital and credit needs of a business.

Business owners will learn credit management techniques & develop skills that will produce better business results. Our interactive training programs provide business owners with hands-on experience in developing effective financial management strategies.

This program is a unique opportunity to learn about:

- Personal credit vs. business credit: Why the two should never meet
- Credit report analysis process
- Credit report entries to avoid
- How to really get a free credit score – the process

This topic can be delivered as a teleseminar/webinar or mutli-hour workshop.

If teleseminar, attendees will receive an MP3 download.

If multi-hour workshop, onsite handouts and CD will be available.
