Business Owners Stop Sabotaging Your Success – Master Your Credit

Many business owners think a compelling business plan, excellent management skills and solid goals for the future are all that's required to get a business loan. Well, it's not! Before applying for any type of financing it's essential for them to do an analysis of the relationship they have had with their credit & debt over the past years. There is a direct correlation between managing personal finances well and ability to successfully meet the capital and credit needs of a business.

Business owners will learn credit management techniques & develop skills that will produce better business results. Our interactive training programs provide business owners with hands-on experience in developing effective financial management strategies.

At the conclusion of this workshop, business owners will know:

- How specific information in a credit report effects a credit score
- How to develop and implement a strategy to improve a credit score
- About credit score models and business credit scores
- How to manage credit to produce business results

This topic is delivered as a mutli-hour workshop.

Onsite handouts and a CD will be available.
